

RIISING OHIO RIVER SENDS HUNGRY REFUGEES TO NEW HAVENS; EPIDEMIC AND STARVATION STALK IN THE DEBRIS

Every Resource of Federal, State and Local Government Fights To Alleviate Widespread Suffering — Evacuation of Paducah's 34,000 Citizens Goes Forward

By International News Service

The Ohio River continued its relentless rise today, widening its swath of death and disaster, and sending straggling, miserable, hungry and thirsty refugees of yesterday's haven to what they hoped would be safety from the boiling, surging waters.

Behind them, the refugees, more than half a million in number, left desolated water soaked cities.

From Pittsburgh to Memphis, along the Ohio and the Mississippi Rivers and their tributaries, scores of pestilence, panic and starvation stalked above the yellow debris—flood waters inundated acres of lush valley farmlands and coursed through cities, towns and villages.

Every resource of the Federal, State and local government fought to alleviate the widespread suffering.

Property damage was estimated at over $100,000,000. In Cincinnati alone, damage from flood and fire was estimated at from 10 to 15 million dollars while in Indiana the surging flood waters reaped a dollar harvest estimated at $40,000,000.

Six feet of water coursed through the streets of Ironton, Ohio, today. A terrific gas explosion wrecked the stores and office buildings there.

At Portsmouth, the Red Cross today began evacuation of 5,000 of the cities 25,000 homeless to Columbus. Three-fourths of the city is under water. The greater portion of zones revealed were under water, and residents along the banks of the Muskingum river are being evacuated. Kentucky counted its homeless in excess of 400,000, its dead at 30.

At Louisville, under martial law, the Ohio passed the 56 foot stage today, and was expected to reach a crest of 58 feet. Power and water have been cut off. Refugees, many of them ill of influenza and pneumonia, huddled together in makeshift barracks. The situation was desolate.

From 40 to 50 prisoners were reported missing as evacuation of the State Prison at Frankfort was completed. An unknown number was believed killed in rioting.

Evacuation of Paducah's 34,000 citizens went forward today. The entire city under water, a devastating conflagration was feared as thousands of gallons of gasoline floated on the flood waters.

An estimated 100,000 persons have been driven from their homes in thirty-three Indiana counties. An army of 10,000 relief workers toiled to complete evacuation of Evansville's 102,000 citizens. One-third of Evansville is under water. The stricken area is under strict martial law, with Governor M. Clifford Townsend threatening to confiscate private homes to take care of the refugees, many of them suffering from influenza, pneumonia, scarlet fever and typhoid fever.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 26—(INS)—The greatest movement of population in Indiana's history was under way today as state officials, operating under drastic martial law, speeded complete evacuation of the city of Evansville, with a population of 102,000.

An anticipated record-breaking rise in the Ohio River to a stage of 55 feet caused Charles W. Carr, director of Red Cross operations, and National Guard officials to proceed with evacuation plans.

Meanwhile, Governor M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana, in an address, appealed to mayors in all cities in the western part of the state to prepare to care for the flood refugees of Evansville and vicinity. The Governor said the state and the Red Cross would provide food and medical supplies and that blankets and mattresses would come from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Regular Army post near here, but he urged the mayors to make arrangements for adequate shelter.

If the mayors do not co-operate, the Governor, under the wide sweeping martial law proclamation he issued Sunday night, has ample power to quarter flood sufferers in any private home or building in the same manner in which French military authorities billeted troops in any part of the nation during the World War. The Governor, however, said he did not wish to use force, but appealed to the humanitarian instincts of the citizens.

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 26—(INS)—Cairo, sandwiched between the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers at the southernmost tip of Illinois, fought desperately and dramatically today to stave off what threatens to be the most awful disaster in its history.

With their women and children evacuated, the men of Cairo battled the roaring rivers, piling boards, refuse, dirt and sandbags along the two and a half mile long levee.

As the men toiled at the levee, authorities continued the evacuation of hundreds of families in the flooded lowland districts.

Officials declared they believed the gravest danger passed—the dynamiting of the levee at Bird's Point on the Missouri side of the Mississippi River yesterday had released pressure on the levee protecting Cairo. The river, Continued On Page Four

Union Horse Company Has A Perfect Year

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 26 — What might properly be called "a perfect year" was enjoyed by the Union Horse Company for the Detection of Horse Thieves and Other Villains, that met in the 102d annual meeting and dinner here at the Doylestown Inn.

Not a single horse was stolen in 1936 and it was not necessary to call out the association's detectives to capture a villain. Not a single cent had to be paid out for losses and the company closed the year with over $50 in the treasury.

Forty members attended the annual dinner and election. Thomas Ross, of Doylestown, well-known attorney, was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected included the following: Vice-presidents, District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn, Doylestown, and William L. Moore, Doylestown township; secretary, George MacReynolds, Doylestown; treasurer, Warren Carver, Doylestown township. Directors, Edward O. Steely, George McLaughlin, H. B. Rosenberger, A. Harry Clayton, Robert L. Clymer, Arthur M. Eastburn, Frank Mitch, Wesley Bunting, Doylestown; A. S. Worthington, Wycombe; William L. Moore, Doylestown township; Frank C. Chestnut, Doylestown township.

A Russell Thomas, Doylestown, was elected a detective of the company to fill the vacancy left by the death of Asher K. Anders.

It was decided to hold the 103d annual meeting on the second Saturday in January, 1938.

Two new members, J. Donald Bean and George R. Smith, of Doylestown, were initiated.

NEW POSTMISTRESS IS NAMED AT NEWPORTVILLE

Postoffice Has Been in Charge of Vandegrift Family for Over Half Century

K. VANDEGRIFT RESIGNS

NEWPORTVILLE, Jan. 26—The Newportville post office, which for more than a half century has been in charge of the Vandegrift family, will soon have a new home and new postmistress.

Kenneth Vandegrift, who has held the postmastership for a number of years, is to be succeeded by Mrs. Mary Frances Wilson, Main street, and the post office is to be moved from the Vandegrift store along the Neshaminy Creek to the Wilson residence.

The post office was "resided over" by various members of the Vandegrift family for more than the last six decades, with the exception of the two terms when Grover Cleveland was President of the United States, said terms starting in 1885 and 1893. For some years previous to Cleveland's first term, the interim between the terms, and ever since, a Vandegrift has been postmaster.

Kenneth Vandegrift, who has served in this capacity for a number of years, succeeded his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Vandegrift, who served successfully.

The date for the formal opening of the new post office at the home of Mrs. Wilson has not been definitely decided, but will take place in the near future, it is believed. Her appointment was received last week.

The new post office is to be located in a room at the Wilson home, which is reached by a side entrance. New boxes have been ordered, and as soon as commissioned, Mrs. Wilson will take up her new duties.

BISHOP TAITT BLESSES EDDINGTON PARISH HOUSE

New Modern Structure Replaces Building Destroyed By Fire

OVER 100 AT SERVICE

EDDINGTON, Jan. 26—More than 100 persons, including clergymen from nearby towns, gathered yesterday afternoon in Christ Episcopal Church parish house, when the Rt. Rev. Francis M. Taitt, Bishop of Pennsylvania, blessed the new parish house and the recently finished chapel in the basement of the church.

The parish house, a new modern structure that replaces a building destroyed by fire a few years ago, was the first to be blessed by the Bishop. The Bishop was assisted in the ceremony by the Rev. Charles E. Eder, dean of the Convocation at Germantown; the Rev. Charles B. DuBell, rector at St. Simeon's, Philadelphia; and the Rev. Arthur F. Gibson, rector of the Christ Church here.

From the parish house or Sunday School building the group went to the chapel where ceremonies were again performed. At the close of the blessing the Bishop talked briefly and commended the efforts that resulted in the Chapel.

He urged the members of the Christ Church to attend the services in the chapel frequently. "It will make you feel the presence of God in a more real form," the Bishop said. "A little chapel such as this one will bring you closer to the Lord."

The chapel, which was begun in October, was completed about one week ago. The total cost was $190.61, and contributions for it came from the congregation and friends. It will be used for the first time Thursday

FIND FARMER GUILTY; RELEASED IN BAIL PENDING HIS APPEAL

John W. Simons, Jr., Red Lion and Knights Rds., Guilty of Involuntary Manslaughter

SAYS IT WAS ACCIDENT

Testifies At Hearing With Tears Streaming Down His Face

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26—John W. Simons, Jr., 49-year-old farmer and father of eleven children, today was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by an all-male jury in connection with the slaying of George Watson Doble, 19-year-old Philadelphia gunner.

The Commonwealth had asked the jury to find the defendant guilty of second degree murder, but the lesser verdict was returned by the jurors in a sealed envelope, which was opened by the court today.

Simons was released under $2,000 bail, pending argument for a new trial, although he had been at liberty previously on $10,000 bail. The bail was reduced because the defendant, who had been charged with murder, was found guilty of a much lesser charge.

The jury reached its verdict, it was learned, shortly before nine o'clock last night, but it was not revealed until court opened this morning.

With tears streaming down his face, Simons protested on the witness stand that the shooting was accidental. "As I started up the bank, my right foot slipped, I fell down and the gun went off," he wept.

The charge from the 12-gauge shotgun killed George Watson Doble, Jr., 19, last November 11, in a ravine separating Bucks and Philadelphia counties. Doble and his chum, Frank Lang, 21, also of Philadelphia, are alleged to have been shooting pigeons on Simons' property.

After placing the case in the hands of the jury, Judge J. Orion Waite of Erie county, substituting here, went home. He instructed the jurors to seal any verdict reached before retiring and, if they agreed on a verdict, to return it to the court today. Simons, who has been at liberty in bail, was permitted to return to his home for the night.

On the witness stand, Simons testified he was topping carrots on his farm when he noticed the boys shoot-

AIR BUREAU BLAME

Federal responsibility for doing the utmost to make flying safe enters into the aftermath of the recent air disasters in the Far West. The criticism of the Bureau of Air Commerce and the reports of its impending reorganization, which have figured in recent news from Washington, are recalled.

In the last 30 days, 29 lives have been lost in crashes of passenger planes. The public shares the intense concern of the aviation industry.

When the news of the last accident reached Washington, Senator Copeland (N. Y.) chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, issued a statement saying known needs for radio and weather reporting facilities have not been supplied by the Department of Commerce, and declaring "there are fundamental defects in the Bureau of Air Commerce."

The Bureau was established under President Hoover. It was originally given powers over the whole field of commercial aviation and placed under technical direction which was intended to be kept free from political influences. The Roosevelt Administration divided its functions among other Government agencies and it has been shown that the direction was placed in the hands of men indorsed for the positions by powerful Democratic senators.

Some Federal agency should have adequate jurisdiction and power and resources enough to establish safety regulations and provide all the reasonably needed facilities for guiding the transport planes along their routes. Suspicion that politics can make spoils of appointments to the posts such essential work provides should not be permitted to exist.

PROPERTY RIGHTS

A former probate judge in Bay City, Michigan, has suggested the legal status of sit-down strikes would be clarified if anti-sit-down strikers should take up the practice of "sitting down in sit-down strikers' homes."

"Men with suitcases would visit the homes of sit-down strikers and gain admittance by representing that they had something of interest in the suitcases," he explained. "Once inside, each man would open the bag, which would contain clothing, and announce that he would stay right there until the man of the house came home."

The suggestion is not exactly one to be taken seriously, but it serves to show why there must be laws on the statute books which cover the situation created by a sit-down strike; also why such strikes are inherently dangerous as a labor tactic.

A sit-down striker's wife, in the situation above outlined, would meet it by calling on the law to eject the intruder, and she would find the law was on her side. The most elementary of property rights, which the law must protect, is the right of an owner, any owner, to enjoy possession of his property free from intruders.

Weekly Letter to Home-Makers

A Letter Written by Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree to Home-Makers will appear in each Tuesday's issue of The Bristol Courier. Through this medium Mrs. Crabtree will give many helpful hints to home-makers.

Dear Friends:

"Budget for Beauty."

That advice comes from a prominent authority on home subjects, who dares to step forward and assert that the average family needs something more than bread and meat.

Budget for necessities first, by all means, but save a bit for beauty and charm, even if it means flowers just once a week for your table. Bright pottery and linens, now priced so reasonably, and an occasional flower will lend a gracious atmosphere to everyday meals.

Adults and children alike are bound to remark on the transformation, and agree with you that the beauty budget was well spent.

Narcissus and Hyacinth bulbs are so inexpensive that the clever homemaker can "stagger" her plantings through the winter season and always be sure of bright growing things.

The lowly turnip, carrot, or sweet potato grows obligingly and swiftly when planted in a box of stones and water, or in a window hanging basket. Sweet potatoes will almost rival ivy.

The homemaker herself must not be overlooked in this beauty budget. Her kitchen shelves should hold a few dependable beauty aids, for emergency use. If all the beauty preparations are kept in the bedroom or bathroom, they are rarely used.

Even if the kitchen shelf holds only a good hand lotion, or cream, it will guarantee regular use, and will quickly show its beneficial effect on the busy hands that are in and out of hot water many times an hour.

Rubber gloves should be worn when washing dishes, peeling vegetables, or cleaning in any part of the house. Use a mild soap for dish washing, and take pains not to have the water too hot. Harsh soap and hot water are responsible for red hands that crack and chap in cold weather.

Substitute small Turkish towels for huck hand towels in the kitchen.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

LAMB and poultry continue to be excellent values and eggs are a real bargain which should be enjoyed. Butter too is somewhat cheaper.

Many vegetables are plentiful and cheap in spite of the California freeze which affected some varieties. From Florida, Texas and the West Indies come green and lima beans, beets, carrots, celery, eggplant, peas, peppers, squash, spinach and tomatoes as well as new potatoes. Turnips and onions and all salad greens except iceberg lettuce are also very reasonable.

Winter strawberries are a treat and at present they are available in many markets at reasonable cost. Another luxury which is fast becoming a staple in our markets is the avocado. Based on market reports are the three accompanying dinners.

Low Cost Dinner
Braised Chuck Steak
Potatoes Carrots Onions
Bread and Butter

Medium Cost Dinner

Pan-browned Potatoes Lima Beans

They have the added virtue of reducing the quantity of ironing.

A piece of cut lemon beside the sink is an excellent reminder to remove stains. When the dishes are done, or the vegetables peeled, clean the nails and hands quickly with lemon, rinse, dry and rub in a softening lotion. A weak solution of lemon juice also makes a fine bleach for elbows and hands.

If your hands are still troublesome, remember that olive oil is as beneficial for dry skin and chapped hands, as it is for the scalp. Probably you have tried massaging warm olive oil into the scalp the night before a shampoo.

Keep a small bottle of olive oil on the kitchen shelf. For effective use, place it in a dish of hot water, and then rub the warmed oil into the hands after working in the kitchen. This will counteract trouble from brittle nails, brought on by hot water and careless drying. During Winter months, rub olive oil on the heels and knees at least once a week to counteract roughness.

Occasionally it's a splendid idea to smear it on your hands before you go to bed and to wear clean cotton gloves while you sleep.

Finally, the refrigerator supplies the best friend for your skin. Apply ice water lavishly at night, after you have cleaned face and throat and slap plenty of it on in the morning before you smooth on foundation cream or lotion.

Any skin expert will tell you that ice water—and even ice applied directly to the skin—stimulates sluggish circulation and tends to refine the pores.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

Try Rice

Variety in stuffing is sought by cooks who serve roast chicken and turkey frequently during the Winter season. Use boiled rice, instead of bread crumbs, in making your next supply of stuffing for fowl. Season as usual.

Saucy Information

Found: A new idea for using the cranberry sauce, celery and roast fowl that remain from a dinner feast.

Even though the left-overs are meager, cut the molded cranberry sauce into cubes, dice the celery, the remaining fowl, and any salad greens available. Mix with well seasoned French dressing and serve with a bit of mayonnaise, if desired.

Fresh Flavor

Lovers of flavory lemon pie will welcome this suggestion. Grate a teaspoon of the lemon rind and add it to the beaten egg white for pie. The grated rind gives both color and flavor to the meringue.

Find Farmer Guilty; Released In Bail Pending His Appeal

ing at his pigeons. He chased the boys and grabbed up Doble's gun when the youth dropped it.

"I yelled to the boy to stop running, but he didn't," Simons testified. "Then I yelled to him, 'This is my time to shoot.' I only did this to make him stop, as I had no gun and he did. He turned around and looked at me, and I gained about 20 yards on him. He ran through the creek but I caught up in time to pull him back when he tried to get up the opposite bank.

"He had put his gun down when he started up the bank and I picked it up."

As he started up the bank, Simons sobbed, "My right foot slipped and the gun went off."

Doble's companion, Lang, told the court how they started gunning for pheasants and Doble missed two pigeons over the Simons farm. Then he heard a shot, he said, and saw Simons chasing Doble. But he didn't see the fatal shot, he said.

Anderson R. Corkle, of Philadelphia, another hunter, told of seeing Simons drag Doble down the bank, and of hearing the shot. Then, Corkle said, he found the farmer standing over the boy, screaming:

"Help! I shot him; I can't look at him."

Simons resides on a farm at Red Lion and Knights roads.

The first witness called for the prosecution was Frank Lang, 21, of Philadelphia, who told how he and young Doble had taken the day off to go gunning for pheasants.

When they reached Simons' property, he heard a shot and turned about to see his friend had just shot at two pigeons, but missed. Next thing he heard was a shout and then he saw George running, with the defendant chasing him. The witness ran away in another direction, and that was all he knew about the matter.

The next witness was Anderson R. Corkle, also of this city, who testified he also was gunning in the neighborhood with his brother, Francis. He heard a shout and saw the defendant chasing a boy who ran down a gully and started up the bank on the other side, when the defendant grabbed him and pulled him back. He next heard a shot and saw Simons standing on the Philadelphia side of the gully with a gun in his hand. He was shouting: "Help! Help! I shot him!"

Corkle testified he ran to a nearby farmhouse and telephoned for a doctor. When he returned to the scene and asked the defendant "How is he?" Simons replied: "I can't look at him." He said the defendant carried the boy up the side of the bank and waited for the doctor to come. The whole side of the face of young Doble was shot away. Francis Corkle, the brother of the witness, was next called, and told the same story.

Anthony Russo, Bucks county detective, next took the witness stand and testified that when he reached the scene of the shooting, the defendant was crying and told him that he had chased the boy for shooting at his pigeons, and caught him as he was struggling up the bank on the opposite side of the gully, on the boundary line of his property, and took the gun away from the boy and started to return with him, but as they were climbing up the bank with the boy in front, his foot slipped in the soft mud and the gun was accidentally discharged, the boy receiving the full load of the shot in his head. Detective Russo said he examined the bank of the gully and saw the marks where the defendant stated he had slipped.

on Yerkes, Buckingham, treasurer; and Mrs. Alice Kiron, Hollicong.

The fine gymnasium of the school, which will be the center of many fine affairs in the future, in addition to athletic contests and classes in physical education, will be ready for occupancy in about two weeks, but the remainder of the new addition will not be completed for several months.

Any school in Bucks county, many of them much larger than Buckingham High, could well be proud of Buckingham's new gymnasium.

The new unit, including the $40,000 addition and the building erected four years ago, will comprise four large class rooms, two modern wash-rooms for boys and girls, a heater room, shower room and lockers for boys and girls, the gymnasium, a new school office, a modern equipped cafeteria which has been in operation for some time and a rest room.

The new heating system is of the very latest type, built along the lines of an air-conditioned unit. The electric lighting system and the natural light reflecting units are the last word in modern school building.

The general contractor for the new addition is Harry Murphy, Glenside. The new addition was designed by Heacock, Hokanson & Scheuringer, of Philadelphia. Plumbing is being installed by M. A. Rufe Estate, Doylestown, while the electrical work is in charge of Ford & Morris, Philadelphia.

The new addition is constructed of stone and red brick and matches the architecture of the building erected four years ago.

One of the features is an interior fire tower of brick and concrete, with all units of the building leading to the tower.

A very large hot water tank has been erected, with sufficient capacity to furnish water for showers and the

The gymnasium is 66 feet long and 36 feet wide with a 17-foot ceiling surrounded by a six-foot vine wainscoting. The gymnasium is heated from the top by a blower system that circulates the air evenly throughout the play period. There are ten large windows in the gymnasium, all protected with metal screening. The gymnasium classes will be in charge of Clyde Skillman and Miss Matrona Walck, the coaches. The gymnasium will also be used for an assembly room, with seats for 350. The ceiling in the gymnasium is Masonite.

In the rear of the school is a three-acre athletic field that includes a hockey, soccer and baseball layout and plenty of room for a track.

The basketball schedule at Buckingham High will not get under way until Wednesday, January 27, when the Buccaneers will open the season with Doylestown Junior High, at Doylestown. On February 2, Buckingham will travel to Lower Makefield

"I'M NO SANTA CLAUS..."

"Today I installed a telephone for an old lady who lives by herself. She's been pretty lonely, she said, since both her children moved out of town. Now that she has a telephone, they can call her up any time—and she can call them. She feels safe with a telephone in her home—and it must be a comfort to her children to know she can get help quickly if she needs it."

"Another job was an extension telephone that will enable a young mother to answer calls without leaving her baby alone and without running up and down stairs. I'm no Santa Claus—but I made a lot of people happy today just by installing telephones."

An extra telephone for your home—upstairs or in the kitchen—costs less than three cents a day. The service connection charge is only $2.00. To order an extension telephone, just call the Business Office—or ask any telephone employee.

CELTICS FINALLY BREAK INTO LEAGUE WIN COLUMN

The Celtics finally broke into the win column of the A. O. H. Basketball League last night as they trounced the Gaels, 39-21, in a one-sided match.

Taking the lead early in the game when "Eddie" Dugan began to shake the cords from all angles and then "Eddie" Roe took on where Dugan stopped, the Celtics were never headed. Dugan made 14 points to Roe's 12. McElroy had 8 points for the losers.

Despite the accurate shooting of Joe Gallagher, the Rams lost a grand opportunity to climb into first place when they were nosed or by the league-leading Columbians, 3-31.

The Rams until the first minute of the contest had the edge on the pace-setters, holding a four-point lead.

"Bill" Harkins on a long shot made a two-pointer and then "Nev" McGinley sank in the sphere from side court to even matters with but 20 seconds to go. McGinley got the tap, hit the ball to Callahan who passed to Lake. "Jimmy" let go and the ball dropped clear through the net for the winning goal. Jimmy Lake was high scorer with 13 points. For the losers, Joe McGee had nine.

FALLSINGTON TO OPPOSE BRISTOL HERE TONIGHT

(By Louis Tomlinson)

Tonight, on the high school court, Coach "Bill" Dougherty's basketballers will face their second severe test of the young season, when they meet the fast-stepping quintet of Coach "Jim" Doherty, from Fallsington.

From all indications this tilt promises to be another of those all-exciting battles from start to finish. The Bunnies, who are stepping along at a fast rate, have won all of their six games played thus far, included among which are two Lower Bucks County League victories over Morrisville and Bensalem. Fallsington, on the other hand, started the season off with seven straight victories, and to date has won three consecutive conference games without a defeat, which earns for them first place in the league, undisputedly, a half-game ahead of the second place Bunnies.

This is the first crucial test for both teams, and both will give everything to "take over" their foes. Should the Cardinals win they would thus take over first place, one-half game ahead of the Orange and Black.

Taking everything into consideration, therefore, the fray should be a real thriller. However, should Fallsington win it would stretch its lead to one full game over the Red and Gray quintet.

Fallsington has league victories over Bensalem, Morrisville and Southampton. Bristol is the only other team in the league they haven't opposed. The visitors will not only attempt to win the fray to hold onto their slim lead, but to extend it and at the same time seek revenge over the locals for the crushing defeat the former suffered at the moment of the Cardinals in football last fall. Until they met Bristol they were undefeated; then came their "Waterloo." They are determined this will not be a repetition of the football season.

To further show the equality of both teams, let us look at scores of other games. They may not prove much, but at least they bear out the point: Bristol beat Morrisville, 16-13; Fallsington beat Morrisville, 19-16, both exciting games; against Bensalem, Bristol won, 41-11; Falls won, 45-12, again showing balance of both teams.

Rising Ohio River Sends Refugees To New Havens

they reported, had receded from a flood stage of 58.65 to 58.55 early today.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 26—(INS)—The Cumberland River stood six feet above flood stage early today, with water coursing through downtown streets.

The power and light plant functioning throughout the night, but with the river still rising, officials feared power would soon be cut off.

By L. L. Reece

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 26—(INS)—The scourge of pestilence, panic and starvation hovered over miserable, flood-stricken Louisville today as the city awaited the arrival of federal troops to aid in the enforcement of martial law proclaimed by Governor A. B. Chandler last night.

With the raging Ohio 8 to 10 miles wide and still rising, two-thirds of the city's population of 330,000 homeless, and 90 per cent of the city's homes under from one to 30 feet of water, stringent measures were taken to preserve order and alleviate suffering.

Backing up the proclamation of Director of Safety Dunlap Wakefield, two looters, a white man and a negro, were reported shot and killed by police last night. Authorities refused to confirm or deny the report.

A battalion of 400 federal soldiers is enroute here from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., to aid local authorities.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 26—(INS)—The mightiest flood in the history of the Mississippi was foreseen today by Col. Eugene S. Reyhold, District Chief of Army Engineers.

The Mississippi, he predicted, will rise 10 feet higher than any flood stage ever before experienced.

"A 'super flood' is on the way," Col. Reyhold said. "There will be 55 feet of water at Memphis before the water now pouring into the Mississippi from the Ohio River is carried off."

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26—(INS)—Six hundred red-eyed and tattered flood refugees from Portsmouth, O., the first of 5,000 to be removed here on special trains, arrived early today.

Weary, and many of them broken in spirit by the loss of all their worldly goods, the refugees presented a pitiful sight upon arrival at the Union Station.

Most of them carried little bundles of clothing, which for some represented all that was left them by the worst flood the Ohio Valley ever has known, one which a few weeks ago many of these same refugees would have said could never happen.

As the 13 coaches were unloaded, the refugees filed upstairs into the station and were registered. Most of them had been inoculated against typhoid fever. They were taken to a lodge hall and to a downtown church where coats and food were provided.

PADUCAH, Ky., Jan. 26—(INS)—The danger of a devastating conflagration menaced flood-stricken Paducah today as 20,000 gallons of gasoline floated on the flood waters coursing through the streets of the evacuated city.

The gasoline was spilled from a huge tank which was torn loose from its moorings shortly before midnight last night. Several other tanks are in imminent danger of breaking loose, it was reported.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 26—(INS)—Safe evacuation of 2,000 residents of Wheeling Island, in the middle of the raging Ohio River, was effected today. All were sheltered in the market auditorium and the Webster and Richie schools.

Police Lieut. A. E. Stanley said 6,000 remain on the island. Only those who work in Wheeling were brought to the mainland.

He said the water had not threatened to inundate the entire island although it had risen today to 4.5 feet, a new peak for the current flood.

The area worst hit by the flood is the south side here. Much of that was inundated, Stanley said.

that the water be used only for cooking and drinking.

Engineers said today that the city water and power plants cannot be operated until the raging Ohio recedes to a 70 foot stage. That day may be a week off, government meteorologist

W. C. Devereaux predicted as the river climbed to 79.99 feet early today. He did not expect the crest, which he said would be between 80.5 and 81 feet, to be reached until late today or early tomorrow.

Plans were being made today to pipe water from a deep artesian well on a factory site in suburban Oakley, into an emergency reservoir.
